Invitation to The Everyday Commission Training - Restoring Passion for Great Commission Living

Within the local church, there's an urgent call to reignite a fervent passion for fulfilling the Great Commission. The Everyday Commission Training emerges as a crucial avenue, empowering believers to grasp the means to effectively spread God's love to the world!

In this training, we will address four critical questions that every believer and every group of believers must regularly face. We will also challenge you to four commitments in response to each of the questions below – this is your opportunity to apply the truth of God's Word in your everyday life.

Personally

1. What is our divine purpose?
2. What does God want to produce through our lives?
3. What are the discipling priorities God has called us to?
4. How do I choose the right activities to help me fulfill God's mandate of multiplication?

As a Group of Believers

1. Why does our church or ministry exist?
2. What does God want to do through our ministry?
3. How do we meet the needs of people at various stages of spiritual growth?
4. How do we design activities to encourage people to become fully trained disciples?

We believe that the answers to these questions are modeled in the life and ministry of Jesus.

Envision a vibrant community within your church where individuals allow God's love to infuse their daily experiences and relationships. As we shift our perspective and see spreading the gospel as simply sharing God's love, emboldened by His Spirit, the task becomes less daunting, knowing that ultimate outcomes rest in His hands.

For over 25 years, Dave Murphy has been at the forefront of The Everyday Commission training, facilitating transformative experiences. This training is open to all, with a modest $15 registration fee covering all materials and lunch. Come, join us as we embark together on this journey of faith and mission.
