In his long career as a Ferrari Automobiles representative, Dick Fritz was the Team Manager for the North American Racing Team (NART), which was the only Ferrari factory supported racing effort in North America. Mr. Fritz was in charge of planning, logistics, and trackside management of as many as 6 Ferraris in a 24-hour race. A NART Ferrari 250 LM was the last Ferrari to win the 24 Hours of Le Mans. Under Mr. Fritz's management, NART raced at all major 12- and 24-hour endurance races, Formula 1, Can Am and set several world records at the Bonneville Salt Flats. He was also responsible for designing many key racing components and the conversion of road going Ferraris into racing versions.

Dick Fritz's half century of significant involvement in the automotive world has earned him the title of "Automotive Legend" by the editor of Road & Track magazine.
