Route Description

The route begins in the Town of Willsboro, founded in 1765 by William Gilliland. Settlers dammed the Bouquet River and built a saw mill and community buildings near the falls, on the east side of the bridge. The town was destroyed during the Revolutionary War but was rebuilt by 1800. The river powered the Willsboro Iron Works, one of the best known forges in the US and Canada, and a paper pulp mill. The black ash piles that were the by-product of the mill can be seen downstream of the falls. The river historically supported Landlocked Atlantic Salmon, which were wiped out as a result of industrial pollution. Salmon were eventually restored, and you can visit the Fishway at the falls. On Willsboro Point there is an experimental agricultural farm run by Cornell University, and you can visit Samuel Adsit's log cabin, built in 1778 for his family of sixteen. Note numerous houses made of Lake Champlain Blue Stone that was quarried on Willsboro Point and used in the foundation of the Brooklyn Bridge and Albany State Capital, NY.
